BRIDGE BURNERS OF 1862

In March of 1862 the Confederate army of the West was concentrated at Corinth, Miss., under Beauregard. This army received its supplies from the rich Georgia and Carolina fields, and its reenforcements from extensive drill camps in these States. These troops and supplies were forwarded over a single line of railroad-tho western and Atlantie-running from Atlanta, Ga., to Chattanooga, Tenn., which had been, not juaptly, called "the backbone of the rebellion." The move ments, present and prospective, of the Federal armies rendered it very important that Benuregard should be cut off charge. I also lost similar precess that the precess that the particular of the cut off times.

A ROMANCE OF MARRIAGE.

Thomas Holk was a renowned English farmer; had largo estates and great personal wealth, was a member of Parliament, and was regarded by all England as the prince of farmers. He was be good and benevolent as he was rich and respected. He was distantly related to the Dudley family; and if the lated to the Dudley family; and if the state of the Earl of Lelegater should be title of the Earl of Leleester should be revived by royal command, he would be the helr to that once great name and title of the period of Queen Ellmbeth. Her Majesty, regarding his excellent character and qualifications for the honor, deemed it her duty, as well as an act of public approbation, to revive the title, and in his behalf, consequently, he was created by the Queen, the Earl of Leleester, and he took his seat In the House of Peers amid great respect and ceremony. The new Earl, however, was a childless widower, and about 80 years of age. The inheritor of the title, after his death, would be his nephew, who had depended for support and education entirely upon his rich relative, and knowing that, apparently, he must inherit the title and estates, had become indifferent and dissipated. Lord Lelecster thought to cbeck this behaviour by his nephew's marrying, and thus perpetuating the Blood.

This Sarsaparilla is a combination of vegetable alteratives — Stillingia, Mandrake, Yellow Dock — with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron, and is the most efficacious medicine yet known for the diseases it is intended to cure.

Its ingredients are so skilfully combined, that the full alterative effect of each is assured, and while it is so mild as to be barmless even to children, it is still so effectual as to purge out from the

as to be barmless even to children, it is still so effectual as to purge out from the system those impurities and corruptions which develop into loathsome disease.

The reputation it enjoys is derived from its cures, and the confidence which prominent physicians all over the country repose in it, prove their experience of its usefulness.

Certificates attesting its virtues have accumulated, and are constantly being received, and as many of these cases are publicly known, they furnish convincing evidence of the apperiority of this Sarsnarilla over every other alterativa medicine. So generally is its superiority to any other medicine known, that we need do no more than to assure the public that the best qualities it has ever possessed are strictly maintained.

In 1872 your Veortine was recommended to me, and, yielding to the personations of a friend. I consent d to try it. At the time I was suffering from general ideality and nervous prostration, superinduced by overwork and tregular habits. Its wonderful strengthening and curative praperties seemed to affect my debittaned system from the first dose; and under its presi-text me I rapidly recovered, gaining more than usual health and good feeling. Since then I have not healthed to give Voorting my most impatible indorsetocutt, as being a safe, sire and powerful agent in promoting health and restoring the wasted system in new tife and energy. Veorting is the only medicine i nee; and as long as I live I never expect to find a better.

Dear Sir.—About one year since I found myselr in a feeble condition from general debiliny. Venatina was strongly recummended by a friend who had been much benefited by its asc. I pracuned the article, and, after using several boules, was restored to health, and discontinued its use. I feel quite confident that there is no medicine superior to it for those complaints for which it is sepecially prepared, and would chearfully reconnected it to those who feel that they need something to restore them to perfect health.

LIVERATURE. PRO SANDPIPER

Across the narrow beach we flit, One little sandpiper and I, And fast I gather, bit by bit, The scattered driftwood, bleached and dry The wild waves reach their hands for li,

Above our heads the sullen clouds Like silent ghosts in misty shrouds Stand out the white lighthouses high. Almost as far as eye can reach, I see the close-reefed vessels fly, As fast we flit along the beach,

I waich him as he skints along, Ultering his sweet and mournful cry, He starts not at my fiful song, Or flash of fluttering drapery. He has no thought of any wrong, He scans me with a fearless eye; Stanch friends are we, well tried and strong, The little sandpiper and I. Comrade, where will thou be tonight,

When the loosed clarm breaks furiously My driftwood fire will burn so bright! To what warm sheller canst thou fly? I do not fear for thee, though wroth
The tempest rushes through the sky;
For are we not God's children both, Thou, little sandplper, and 1?

THE OLD MEETING-HOUSE

Never shall I forget the dignity and sense of importance which ewelled my mind when I was tirst pronounced old enough to go to meeting. That eventful Sunday I was up long before day, and even took my Sabbath suit to the window to ascertain by the first light that it netually was there, just as it looked the night before. With what complacency did I view myself completely dressed! How did I count over the rows of yellow gilt buttons on my eoat! how my good mother, graadmother and aimts fussed, and twitched, and pulled, to anke everything set up and set down, just in the proper place! how my clean, starched white collar was turaed over and smoothed again and again, and my golden curls twisted and arranged to make the most of me! and, last of all, how I was cautioned not to be thinking of my clothes! In trnth. I was in those days a very handsome youngster, and it really is no more than justice to let the fact be known, as there is nothing lu my present appearance from which it could house successively asked me if I should talk, nor laugh; and my mother insat just where he could see me. Captain McLeau was a mournful, lengthy. considerate-looking old geatlemau, with long face, digressing imo a long, thin, horny nose, which, when he applied his pocket handkerchief, gave forth n melancholy, minor-keyed sound, such as a ghost might make, using pocket handkerehief in the loug gallery

There they sat in the gallery that lived three sides of the house, treble, naturo. And as everybody goes punet- there were generally sented the bloom of our young people; sparking, modest and blushing girls on one side, with their ribbons and finery, making the place where they sat as blooming and lively as a flower garden, and tlery, forward, confident young men on the other. In spite of its being a meeting house, we could not swear that glances were never given and returned, and that there was flot often as much of an approach to flirtation as the distance and the sobriety of the place would udmit. Certain it was, that there was uo place where our village coquettes attracted half so many eyes or led astray half so many hearts.

But I have been talking of singers all this time, and neglected to mention the Magnus Apollo of the whole con eern, the redoubtable chorister, who ocenpied the seat of honor in the aidst of the middle gallery, and exactly opposite to the minister. Certain it is that the good man, if he were alive, would never believe It; for uo person ever more magnified his office, or bad a more thorough belief in his own grentness and supremacy, than Zedekiah Morse. Methinks I can see him now as he appeared to my eyee that first Snuday, when he chot up from behind the gallery, as if he had been seat up by a spring. He was a little man, whose tlery-red huir, brushed straight up ou the top of his head, had an appearauce as vigorous and lively as real flame; and this, added to the ardor and determination of all his motions, had obtained for him the surnume of tho "Burning Bush." He seemed possessed with the very soul of soag; und ral history. om the moment he began to sing, looked alive all over, till it seemed to me that his whole body would follow his hair upwards, fairly rapt away by the power of harmony. With what an air did he sound the important fa-sol-la iu the eurs of the waiting gallery, who stood with open months ready to seize their pitch, preparatory to their general set to! How did his ascending and descending arm astonish the zephyrs when once he laid himself out to the important work of beating time! How did his little bead whisk from side to side, as now he beat und roared towards the ladies ou his right, and now towards the gentlemeu on his left! It used to seem to my astonished vision longer, his hair redder, and his little green eyes brighter, with every stave; and particularly when he perceived any found uod than common would sud- pitch; with what redoubled vigor would

Among the questions asked the British soldier on joining the service, there is one that relates to his religious praelivities. He has the choice of four or tive religious, or hrmnches of faith, offered to him. He may choose to be a Homan Cutholie, an Episcopalian, a Methodist, Presbyterian or Baptist. Reinforcements were continually added to their goodly number, glying them strength and power supreme, and soon mirth and hilarity reigned in the highest. Still at intervals, bove the noise and confusion consequent upon so important an occasion, could be heard a cry of Pease, Pease,-"yet there was no peace.'

The only officer left in command of this fort, young Captain Lewis, was so completely bewildered by the many comical and grotesque appearances, and the mure unrestrained manuers of the company around him, as to lose his cutire control, and an extra guard was called in tu defend him from further annoyance. But a spy must have been lurking near, as the police were informed of the raid being made, and decisive action being needed, he expeditiously responded to the call, and even then was obliged to manacle one fair captive before this disturbance could

No slight or neglect made any appearance here. All dld ample justice o the demands so urgently placed befure them. After being highly regained with these refreshments, singing was called for, and was responded to by Messrs. Pratt and Shaw, and Mrs. Foster favoring them with the song, "O kestless Sea," Mrs. Field as organist. Mrs. Sterling sang some of her choice Scotch ballads, which were deeply appreclated.

There was a general search fur the grasshoppers, but as they could be heard so vaguely, it was supposed that the late heavy fall of anow had destroyed them sufficiently to prevent thuir ravages.

"Hold the Fort" was also very apprupri ately given. Fine solos were also bestowed by other performers, and ilially the whole empany were requested to join in the singing of "Auld lang syne" before separating for the night, but the invitation of dispersing was unheeded. Another demand was made fur "Speed away," and sill all remained. The third attempt of "Home Sweet Hume," so very feelingly and effectively sung, had the desired effect and gathering their masquerading debris just as the clucks upon neighboring churches were pealing the last hour of the day, each and all most speedly decamped

HOME. SWEET HOME. The Second Universalist Society held year ensuing: their seventh annual masquerade bail, in Music Hall, South Weymouth, Wednesday evening. The management had been placed in the bands of au efficient committee consisting of Messrs. W. H. Sar gent. W. H. Joy, George Hollis, Charles Holbrook, Mrs. E. T. Joy, F. B. Vinson, Henry Lawler, and was executed in most exemplary manner. At 8 o'elock the Grand March was called, and brought in nyer two hundred maskers in every variety and design of costume, among the more prominent of which were "The Fairy," Miss Emlly Blanchard, a most elegant cos tume; "The Polish Girl," Mrs. Clarissa llowe; "The Countess," Miss Ada llowe. Notes from Arizona. . Having spent four or five years in to excess, and quarrels often result, Arisona Territory, most of the time in the southern part, from the Colorado Their roving disposition and eagerness river to the Mexican line, a distance of 450 miles, I recall to mimi some of the most important places visited. Beginning with the Chiricalmi mountains and Apache Indians, I will give the renders of the GAZETTE n description of the shove. As the readors are familiar with the geograpical position of Arizona, I will state that the mountains are situated in south-eastern part of the territory thirty miles from the Mexiean state of Sonora and about twentyfive nilles in length, being very rugged and high. The highest peak is Helen's Dome, estimated at something more than 6000 ft. above the level of the sen. Timber grows in the northern part of the range, and gold ore is found in paylng quantities. Apache Pass is the most important thoroughfare, as it is the only practicable route to or from days by severe indisposition was walk-New Moxico. The mail route is through this pass, and a U. S. military station has been established there, commanding all approaches to the Pass, which is very narrow and intersected with numerous eanyons, and the high hills make it a desirable abode for the Mr. Evarts paused and grasped the old red men, as also n formidable stronghold. The sharp erack of the unerring rife, the hum of the arrow and hideous warwhoops of the Apacie has often resounded through this narrow defile, which has been the scene of much bloodshed by the relentless indians. In the immediate vicinity of the fort.is n trader's store, mail station and quartz mill, the buildings numbering about thirty, being built of adobe, one story hlgh, with flat mud roofs; the Government has large corrals for horses and eattle, also for storage of grain, the walls being fifteen feet high, also built of adobe. The soldiers at the fort are required to perform escort duties for all trains passing through to Ralston, burdens of public life bear all too heav-New Mexico, or Tueson, distance 60 and 120 mlles, thus ensuring protection to life and property. At the opening of the pass is Sulphur Spring and San Samoan vallies, which are very fertile, with abundance of water for irrigating purposes. The former derives its say that there is, in our varied natures, name from the springs which rise in the and the intrinsic differences of natural purposes. The former derives its valley, and for years the Chiricahui Apaches made this their home, and it meating the entire realm of protoplaswill be seen at a glance how the mountains obtained their name. I field it a dark, I was sorely affacted with a cough, carson based with, with every simpton of being a rendrined reads within with every simpton of being a rendrined reads within the every simpton of being a rendrined reads within the finding relief; I also consulted three of nur most preminent Cleveland physicians, the last one of which nonconnecting extensive the first of the council of the counc rounding mountains their home. During '73 and '74, through the successful efforts of Gen'ls Crook and Howard, the first a determined and successful Indian fighter, the lutter a peacemaker, Cochise and his tribe were compelled to submit to the terms of the victors, and a treaty was made and kept for some time. Cochise died a few months after the ratification of the same, dying June '74, in Dragoon mountains, twenty-eight miles from the Pass. This tribe had a large area of county to roam at large upon, which accounts for the tlme occupied in subduing them. Their depredations were committed in Arlzona and adjoining Mexican states; many a poor mail driver and emigrant have they murdered and mutilated on the plains of Sulphur Springs and San Samoan valiles. The lonely graves, with rudely marked headboards, cause the emigrant to pause and realize the hardships of those sturdy pioneers who sought to develope the country and subdue the reientless foe of the whiteman. The tribe is now under the leadership of Cochlse's son, 'Tushla, a large and powerful indian, standing over six feet, well developed, weighing over 200 ibs, ami physically a tine spec lmen of unmhood. His face is stern and flerce looking, owing to the paint used in ornamenting the same. Indiaus are as proud of face painting as some of our young ladies are of their rouge. The warriors are fine looking Indiaus.

etc., and prescribed, instead of medicine, absolute rest and change of scene. Well, I obeyed, and soon started on a and ate sauerkraut in Berks. Finally I hrought up-footsore and bored beyond bearing, in old Williamsport. While there, I fell into the habit of lounging about the railway station, studying the construction of the engines, and making friends with the men. The man with whom I always fraternize most readily is the skilled mechanic. He has a degree of common sense—a store of certain facts which your young doctor or politician is apt to lack. Besides, he is absolutely sure of his social stauding ground, and has n grave self-respect which teaches him to respect you. The professional lad just started on his career is uneasy, not sure of his posi-tion; he tries to climb perpetually. I tell you this to explain my iuthmacy with many of the officials on the road, especially with an engineer named This man attracted me first by his wanted in a few direct, sharp words. Like most reticent men, he knews the watched him with keen curiosity, won-weight and value of words. I soon dering if it were possible that he could him. He was about forty, his hair streaked with gray, with n grave, worn face, which hinted at a youth of hardface, which hinted at a youth of hardFerrers, "that you should have not hreathless; the furnace glared red-het. menial for services rendered,' from the ships and much suffering. However, only made an intimate companion of The heat, the velocity, the terrible neruplands at last. Three years before he had married a bright, cheerful weman. They had one child-n boy. He had werk and good wages, and was, I found, high in the confidence of the company. On one occasion, having a Sunday off, he took me up to Jersey Shore, where his wife and boy lived. He was nn exceptionally silent man, but when with them was garrulous and lighthearted as a hoy. In his eyes Jane was the wisest and fairest of women, and the boy a wender of jutellect. One great source of trouble to him was, as I found, that he was able to see them hut once in three weeks. It was necessary for the child's health to keep them in the country air, and, indeed, he could not afford to have them elsewhere; but this separated him from them almost wholly. Jane was in the habit of coming with Charley down to a certain point of the road every day, that Blakely might see them as he dashed

When I found out this hahit, i occurred to me that I could give Blakely agroat pleasure. January 25th was the child's hirthday. I proposed to Mrs. Blakely that she and Charlie should hoard the train which her husband drove, unknown to him, and run up to Harrisburg, where he had the night off. There was to be a little supper at the Lochiel House. Charley was to appear in a new suit, ctc. Of course the whole affair was at my expense-a mere trifle, but an affair of grandeur and distinction which fairly took Jane's breath. She was a most innocent, happy creature; one of those women who are wives and mothers in the cradle. When Blakely found her she was a thin, pale little tailoress-n nunchine to grind out badly made shoddy clothes. But three years of marriage and petting of Charlcy had made her rosy and plump and pretty. The little Highland suit was hought complete, to the tiny dirk and feather. and very pretty the little fellow looked in it. I wrote down to order a stunning supper, to be ready in eight. Jaue and the boy were to go aboard the train at Jersey Shore, a queer little hili viliage near which they lived. Blakely ran the train from Wiliamsport down to Harrishurg that day. His wife being in the passenger car before he took charge of the engine, of course he would see and know nothing of her until we landed at Harrisburg at seveu. A fancy seized me to go down on the engine with Biakely. I hunted up the tireman, and taiked to bim for au hour. Then I went to the engineer. " Biakely," I said, "Joues (the lireman) wants to-night off.' "Off! It's impossible." I explained to Blukely that Jones an unconquerable desire to run down the road on the engine, and that know. telegram.

Mr. Murray Knights, of East Braintree, has nearly completed the yacht which be bought last fall of Mr. A. Wright, soon after the was timbered out, and has now what will be one of the hundsomest and spryest crafts on the river. Mr. Wright is loling the wood work in a anperlor manner. The buat is to be sloop rigged, and from the fine bearings one would infer that a tremendous press of sail was intended for her. Captain Sheppard is also at work on a promising craft, which is very similar to the "Folly," so much so that we are told she is to be called the "Folly, Jr." This boat is said to be an hoprovement on the "Foliy's" model, but cat-rig. Some say that the "Folly, Jr." will beat the Folly, Sr. on corrected time. A pleasant blt of goodnatured rivalry exists between factions representing this boat and that of Mr. Knights. The "Foliy" men expect to have more of a rub to the chompionship contests of the cooring senson, owing to nmor current that stamianl length equired for admission to the first class is to be iesseoed, thus admitting the "Nnttie" to that closs. "The "Nattie" is 24 feet long, but carries as unch sail as the "Folly." Rumor also has it that Sheppard is to put on a little more sail on his boat at the foot of the mainsail, thus millzing the great quantity of wind which asses under the boom.

Mr. Albert White is raising the shear of his boat and intends to put on a few inches more rim, which will make more dead-rise. The Indications are those of intense merest in yachting the cosumg season.

BRAINTREE DEPARTMENT.

One of the most instructive and enter taining iectures of the course arranged by the First Parisi: Lyceum Committee, was delivered on Wednesdey evening by Prof. Charles A. Pitkin, a teacher in Theyer Academy. His subject was "Torpedo Warfare," and having been connected for-merly with the torpedo station at Newport, the subject was one made familiar by personal experience and therefore more easily made interesting to his audience.

He gave a sketch of the history of the invention of torpedoes and their gradual coming into use as weapons of warfare; traced the changes and improvements made in them, &c. He told of the different kinds of tornedoes, the elements that enter into their composition, the different waye of firing, &c. He gave some very interesting facts about nitro-giyeerine, all of which were illustrated by views thrown on a screen by a calcium light. He iliustrated the manuer of firing torpedoes by electricity, by putting several fusees or miniature torpedoes into a tuh of water, and by means of a small electric battery and wires thet made a circuit round the hall. The explosion, though elight, comparatively, made some of the nervous start; but hie experiments worked so euccessfully as to call for frequent hursts of applause from hie delighted audience. It was an exceedingly interesting and instruc-tive lecture and Mr. Pitkin deserves the thanks of the community for his successful efforts to make it perfectly plain to the ordinary listener.

The closing entertainment of the conrae will be a representation of "Caste," by an amateur dramatic association from Boston. It will be given in Lycenm Hall Wednesday evening noxt.

Mr. Benjamin Power made a few remarks before the lecture, in regard to a pian that the under country of many than the second of the secon is under consideration, of making a sort of reading room in the upper half of the engiue room and a gymnasium in the iower hall. He made an earnest appeal in behalf of the young men who spend so many evenings in the stores and streets, and said that if a little effort could be made autong the order loving citizens it would be in the end a behefit to themselves. Not much money would be required; some things had already been denated for the gymnasium, and if people would send in their weekly papers and magazines after reading them, they would ald in the worthy object. I take the liberty to speak of this, as the appeal may reach some through this paper that otherwise might not hear of it. The idea is an excellent one and the propriety of it will suggest itself at once to those wine are interested in seeling a generation. hali. Ho made an carnest appeal in behalf

Tuesday afternoon, as Mrs. Ann Keliey, of East Brahnfree, was walking on the R. track, on her way home, she saw a train coming, and stepping back to get out of the way of it the 4.30 train from Boston which was approaching struck her, throwing her to the side of the track. She was attended by Dr. Dearing, who says her bruises are severe, but no hones are broken.

Dr. Dearing has under his care two childers both with broken collar bone and the located shoulder, the accidents both happening within two days of each other and in the same neighborhood. They are doing well and will soon bo out.

A child of Daniel Ahearn was severely burned by her clothes taking fire from the stone and it.

stove, the injuries being upon the abdomen. Dr. Faxon attended her, and it is thought that she will recover.

The Braintree Brass Band have been sued individually by their former leader, Mr. Atonzo H. Bond, of Boston, for a baiance of some $50 or $60 due him. Mr. Locke caged a couple of rather large birds in a treight car last Sunday. He was coming home from Sunday School at noon, Whou he louod one of the car doors partly open, and closed and padiocked it. He atterwards saw some large boys trying to open it, and concluded he had bagged same game. Towards night be went to unjock

the point of death. From his troubled expression it was evident that he most earnestly desired to communicate something to his children before he died. Laura, the eldest, was seventeeu, while the other two, Maggie and Tommy, were of the respective ages of thirteen and nine.

For thirty years Jasper Flint had been a lealer in second-hand clothing, and although very penurious and tricky, and driving an extensive trade in castoff garments, he professed to be very poor-nlways crying up poverty to the last. He had never employed a servant or housekeeper, for the ostensible reason that he was too poor, so that Laura, from the age of twelve, had been a perfect little family strudge.

Everybody said that old Jusper was miser. He was near tifty years of age hefore he ever thought of marrying; and with his disposition and habits, it was wonderful that he ever thought of it nt all. The wife he married was twenty years younger than himself; but he starved and broke her heart by his nennueso in ten years' time. She was a delicate, sensitive, and refined woman, and could not adapt herself to his miserly manner of thinking and acting. She died, as we have said, in ten years after this ill-assorted mnrriage, leaving three pretty children with a fair pros-peet of starving after her. A eareful investigation into the old clothier's nffnirs showed but a few pounds in ready money—scarcely more body how old Jasper Flint, with his The Emperor William sent word that, than enough to defray the funeral exenses; and what rendered matters still worse, was, his stock-in-trade was destroyed by tire three days after; and having been too stingy in his life-time $10.00 to pay fer an insurance policy, the poor children lost everything, excepting the roof that sheltered them. But Lanra was a resolute, self-reliant young girl, and proved herself, in every respect, qual to the equivocal situation. She put out a small signboard, and ok in washing and ironing. Maggie. w o was stont and healthy, assisted her in her labors; and Tomany, at her suggestion, though he was but nine years old, launched out mantully as a news-With all hands thus occupied, the niser's children were soon living far more comfortably than they had ever done while their father was alive. They were enabled to supply themselves with more wholesome food, and in sufficient quantity to appease their hunger; to clothe themselves hetter; and to appear better and more weli-todo generally.

Lanra was very pretty, and neat, and affable, and this secured her pleuty of work of the lightest and most desirable lescription, and the young clerks and geatlemen of leisure who chiefly emdoyed her declared that they could see their faces in their shirt-bosoms after they had passed through the artistic ordeal of her polishing irons.

She was subject, of course, to a good deal of annoyance from her genteel ontrons, in the way of tlattery and compilarents, hut she conducted herself dways with the strictest propriety whenever they were present, which oon won for her general respect and frier sbip. Her practical little head was too strong to be turned from the praiseworthy current of her purposes hy any man's flattery. But there was one young man who had insensibly won his way into her good graces-a clerk of twenty. Lanra, with her practical eye, could read his pure and unselfish nature at a glanee, and she liked him; but she understood life hetter than he, and when he nrged an early marriage, she

The liest fat linen cloths in packages of twenty-five wounds each, and pressed to sewarate the stearine from the oleine. The latter drops into vats and thence passes into tierces for shipment, or into churas for butter-making. In each of the churns are piaced 500 pounds of a compound said to consist of ten per cent. of dalry cream, ten per cent. of dairy butter, and eighty per cent. of oleine, with a small amount of unatto for coloring. In a box beneath are 200 wounds of broken ice. After churning half an hour n fancet lets the contents (now resembling dairy cream) down apon the ice, and the moment they touch it the butter appears. It still retains the taste and smell of tallow The ice and butter are then mixed to gether, (we suppose to remove the talow taste, though the reporter does not say so,) and being freed of ice lumps it is then salted, worked and packed Only a small part of the oil is made nto butter, the greater part shipped direetly to Europe. 200,000 pounds of fat are used daily which yield 100,000 pounds of oicomargarine besides the stearine and tallow fat. There are some twenty cheese factories which use the oleino in making cheese. In manufacturing it is mixed with skim milk. It is said that farmers are beginning to use the oil, finding that they can mix it with their cream. A pound of oil osts fourteen cents, and when mixed with a pound of cream will yield n pound of butter. The present daily manufacture of tailow butter is thought to be 250,000 pennds, there being factories in all the principal cities. Shipments are largely to Holland and Great Britain, and in Lunden the oleomargarine is preferred to all second grades of dairy butter, and the price ranges only ten to twenty-five shillings less per hundred weight than for the best crenm butter.

Although the West Point appropriation bill has been passed in the House, and will donbtless he passed in the Senate, its illscussion elicited the fact that there is a growing opposition to that military hatchery, livits present form, and, it may very onably be inferred, that the day is not far distant when a Congress will be sent to Washington commissioned to alter and amend that Institution, and the overhauling will then be nout the less severe because of the long postponement of the

The Vice President of the late Confederacy and Mr. Hewett of New York, have been the congressional atars during the week, or, at least, in theatrical parlance, they are the only members that have made a decided "hlt." The occasion of Mr. Stevens' apeech was the presentation of a life size oil painting of Mr. Lincoln and hls Cabinet, to Congress. The picture, painted by Carpenter and hought and preented by Mrs. Thompson, of New York, is about on a par with others in the eapitel, and if it were not a present would deserve severer criticism. It is called "The Signing of the Emancipation Proclamation,' but it would suit just as well for any other occasion when the late President sud his Cahinet might have been stilly grouped around a table to have their photographs

The speeches on the occasion were elaborate, but it must be admitted that it is more difficult for an orator to please to-day than it has ever been before, and the ambitious sophomore that is even now trainlng, a la Demosthenes and Ciccro, to sway listening Senates, had better turn his sttention to something else, or he will find himself as superfluous as the editors freshly graduated from Yale and Harvard, or the warriors from the military hatchery on the Hudson.

The press has killed both oratory and diplomacy, and, though they still isg they are none the less superfluous. The terse, pointed editorial has driven the hustings and the forum and the pulpit luto the but in assisting a lady friend to a seat in background-first, by the greater force, conciseness and accuracy of statement, and, second, by making critics of laymen, plseing them on a level of intelligence with, and frequently upon a plane above, those who assume the role of oracles. Mr. Stevens sat during the speech of

When the time came for him to speak, be, without attempting to arise from the little three-wheeled chair in which he sits, bowed to the speaker, and then propelling his chair into the open in consequence. space in front of the speaker's stand, faced the house. He was listened to with almost breathless attention, for there was that lu his historic personality, and the historic occasion, greater than the eloquence of words. As his weak voice struggled to fill the hall of the House of Representatives and reach the ears of the generals, statesmen and politicians whose names are a part of the history of the greatest conflict of this hemisphere—the the then old, but now still boylsh-looking politician, was a power in this hall, and prominent as a probable candidate for the presulency, twenty years ago.

In the Senate, the Silver bill has again occupied the week, and speeches have been read to empty floors and galleries by several senators; but now that the bill has been passed, the Senate will be ready for debate upon the approplation bills.

New Schoolhouse at East Weymouth. On Saturday afternoon last, the dedication of the new schoolhouse took place. Guests and risitors were met at the depot, on the arrival of trains, and conveyed to the new building in time teams prorbled by the committee. The schoolhouse, which makes a fine appearance, Is built lu the Swiss style of architecture, and is two stories high. The building is 62 feet 8 luches long and 38 feet 6 Inches wide, with a front projection 18 feet long and 3d feet 6 Inches wide, which contains vestibules and stairways. The first story contains two schoolrooms of equal aize, which seat 33 scholars each. On this floor there are closets for teachers and clothes rooms for scholars. The second story contains one largo room, which could be used for a high school if desired. This room is 41 feet long by 37 feet 6 Inches wide, and is 15 feet bigh. It will accommodate 90 scholars. On this thoor are recitation, library and two large clothes the anbscriber. rooms. Two commandlous flights of stalrs lead to the upper room. All the doors in the building swing ontward. Each schoolroom has two rentilators, communulcating directly with the large ventilators in the roof. The rooms are warmed by two large furnaces of Magee make, and these are so constructed that heat can be sent from either furnace to all the rooms when the weather is not cold enough to require the engagement of the young unusicians both. The cellar extends under the whole building and is 10 feet deep, giving good | tending on purpose to hear them. Warren elevation to the hot air pipes. The cold air is conveyed to the furnaces by brick fines. The seats and desks by the schoolrooms were supplied by the School Furniture Co. of Steriling, Illinoia, and all of the Peerless style. The plans and specificatlons were drawn by Mr. S. S. Woodcock of lloston, under whose superintendence all the work was dobe. The contractors for the building were Messrs. Snow & Cutt. Clapp of Boston. The whole cost for land, grading and building thus far is $12,500.

At 3.30 P. M. orery seat in the accound story was occupied, and the ante rooms commence his labors March 1st. and hall-ways gave standing room to numerous late comers. The exercises were Notice well arranged. First came the pleasing music of "He thee Shallop," admirably C. H. Newton, A. Batte and E. G. Gardner. | making for the event.

Prayer was then offered by Rev. Henry W. Eldredge of the Congregational church, after which a heautiful chant, The Lord's Prayer, was given by Miss Sarah D. French, and Messrs. F. D. Pratt, C. H. Newton and . E. G. Gardaer. Z. L. Bleknell, Esq., Chairman of Building Committec then made an appropriate address, and delivered the keys to the Chalrmati of School Committee, Hon. James Ifumphrey, who accepted them in a few well chosen words. Mr. Hicknell gave an account of the erection of the building and Mr. Humphrey slittled to the unsubnity with which the town had voted to haild this house; spoke of the desirability of possesshig commodious and beautiful hillidings for the purposes of education and laid, the strongest possible emphesis upon the importance of this interest to the community. lusic followed; a pleasing soprano solo by Miss French. Mr. Humphrey then intro iluced Rev. W. G. Nowell, Superintendent of Schools, who gave an excellent address which was listened to with marked attenion. The address will be given in fall in next week's paper.

Miss Famile Wildes again sung, after which addresses were made by Selectmen, toembers of School Committee, Rev. E. D. Ilali, and other gentlemen. Rev. W. C. Wright made one of his witty speeches, which pleased everybody. Gilbert Nash, Esq., of Braintree, contrasted the early school houses of Weymouth with the fine one then being dedicated, and expressed a hope to see yet further progress. Messrs. lisrtlett and Washburn made pleasant remarks and J. W. Armlington, Esq., Princi pal of the Mount Plessant Grammar School, polittedly declared his hope, saa ractical teacher, that the ideas expressed by the Superintendent would not be lost sight of, but be carried into execution.

The chairman of Building Committee and chairman of School Committee illd the honors of the occasion, and everything was systematically and satisfactorily arranged.

The audience united in shighing a seected hymn to the tune of Hamburg, after which a benediction was pronounced by tev. Mr. Eldredge.

A free temperance lecture was delivered in the besement of the Catholic Church Thursday evening of last week, by Rev. Hugh R. O'Donnell, of East Cambridge, under the auspices of the Catholic Total Smith, who made a few appropriate introductory remarks, after which the lecturer began in a very eloquent manner to discuss the subject of intemperance. When God created man he made him in his own image and likenesa, in giving him a soul eapshle of knowing and laving God. He charges for the work are moderate and the gave him dominion over the beasts of the firm is destined to do a large bushness in lield and the fish of the sea, and above all this line. things he gave him knowledge and understanding that made him superior to all ther living things; but the demon of inemperance steals atealthily on nien, rob. ing them of their manhood, making them above all things robbing them of their imnortal souls, for the Scripture tells us plainly that "Notirunkard shall inherit the kingdom of heaven."

I noticed in your last week's issue an article signed "Ward 2," which seemed a inferior to the beasts of the field, and little sareastic. I wonder whether he speaks for himself or the ward. It must be for himself, as I have always learned from those interested in the fire department, and especially the Engine Co., that they are perfectly satisfied with the Rocket. nan: First, the duty he name to his God; f think too much of the Rocket Co. to take any stock in that letter, and if he will take as much palus to make the department The lecturer took these three points as the stand-points of his argument, and we can sincerely say that he did them full justice. The Rocket Engine is a good one, and has a fine Company, though we do not see how he end a call was made for recruits, and they get along as well as they do, with portion of the community continually throwing obstructions in their way. Now supposing "Ward 2" should be so wicked as to take the General I'ntuan away from hin success in this great enterprise. The us, and the machine did not suit, he might say he would have the Conqueror. He sava $1000 is extravagant and then declares he will have two $1000 engines. His econany goes hack on him.

I did not sign the petition for the last neethig, and was not in favor of it. If Ward 2 wants anything to make the departinent more efficient, I think they are blg enough to say so. fle must consider that this is the first thing Ward 4 has ever had since the town was lucorporated; so don't be too severe. Nawell, Superintendent of Schools, subject, "Whittier." The address was a most interesting one, showing the peculiarities of this popular poet and giving extracts from the most farorite ilnes of the Quaker bank. The address was followed with a song, "Sweethearts," by Miss Ande I. Bates, rendered in a nost pleasing manuer; a solo by Miss Nellie F. Nolan was heartly encored and that hady gave another solo, which was cuthusiastically received; a plano solo, "The Last Rose of Summer," was linely reqdered by Miss Ida Rosenfeld, and heartlly applanded; "Absence," sung by Miss Ella Blake, was encored and the singer gave another song which was well applanded; duet, "Night in Venice," by Miss was also very finely rendered and enthuslastically encored. At the close of the exercises the flor was cleared and dancing was indulged in until a late hour, the music being furilshed by Mr. C. L. Stetson, cornet, Mr. . Cushing, riolin, and Mr. W. F. Burrell, plano. The occasion was most enjoyable and liberally patrohized, the hall being

It has been the custom of the Board at ts anniversary to have a children's meet ing, when the circles, with their banners of srlona colors and designs, would fill to verflowing one of the largest churchea in Boston, presenting one of the most thrili-ing and beautiful sights ever seen. This year a change in the regulations of the Boston achools caused the children's meeting to be omitted. The Pilgrim Gicaners, not knowing how matters stood, had arranged to attend the meeting and at the accustomed hour for the ehlldren's gathering presented themselves at the church with their beautiful hanner of charet an gold, greatly to the surprise of the large andlence listening to an address from Mrs. S. N. Schnelder. They were warmly recelved by the President, Mrs. llowker, who they received an enthuslastic greeting from all present. Before the close of the neeting Mrs. Bowker announced to the happy ten, who represented the Circle, that by payment of two hundred dullars by a Boston hady who withheld her name, the girls were made life members of the lloard and by payment of ffry dollars by Mrs. Bowker and Mrs. Stoddard of Boston the boys were made honorary members. Of course the little folks, as well as the good ladles who accompanied them, were rery much pleased and came home in great glee. We are sure the passengers on the train by which they returned will remem ber the occasion as well as the little folks The certificates of life membership were nicely framed by the ladies in Boston, and at a meeting of the Circle, last week, were at a meeting of the Cricic, task week, recreived to the children by Mrs. Chapin, i'reshient of the Norfolk County Branch of the Board, who gave to each, with the certificate, a few earnest, boying words of congratulation and exhertation, urging them, by their generous giving, to do their part in hastening the spread of the Gospe and to seeme for each remaining member of the Circle a certificate of life member-ship of the Woman's Board.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union held a meeting last Friday afternoon. The ladies are working for the coming fair for the State Union. They are also doing any benevolent work that they find to do; all garments that have been brought in for benevolent purposes have been made over or repaired as needed and distributed. The response to the call and distributed. The response to the call account of the larger number of voters in the South part, and gave the Engine for these things has not been as ready as the South part, and part could be desired. The Union slitt house bells as an example.

House bells as an example.

Mr. Allen was then called, and replied that the last statement of Mr. Eastwood was not true; that the bells were first and will be gian to receive construction. Was not true, that and of Engineers, and talked of by the Board of Engineers, and clothing or funds for their work. Next Sabbath evening there will be a union meeting of this society and the Braiutree Temperance Union, in the lown hall.—Rev. A. V. Newton, iate editor of the American Liquor Dealer, will deliver a lecture. He is spoken very highly of as a temperance lecturer, and a good meeting is expected. The singing will be in charge is expected. The singing will be in charge in the sale was dropped by them; but when the sale of those from South and North Braintree

The two small houses have been filled and by working day and night the new one will soon be finished. The quality of the loci is nuch better than at first, being 12 inches thick, with hardly 3 inches of sale.

A private entering the sale was dropped by them; but when the sale of the matter was dropped by them; but when it was brought before a town meeting, they gut the bells, and why? Because the voters from East Braintree turned out in full force and carried the day. He said they could do the same thing every time, if they would look after their interests as well as they did on the bell question. He then said he would like to drop the question for a moment and look at what they would lose by giving up the name of Braintree. The second President came from Braintree; the first granite (used in tron works in this county were crected in Braintree. All these would be lost. He sald in the new town huldlings would be bullt, more officers chosen and consequently the tax would be larger, and he could see no benefit to be derived from the Mr. Robert Loring said he did not see why the (ax would be larger. A lown hall would be erected by Mr. Stetson or some other person, and the schools could he carried on cheaper in the new town than in the South part of Brainfree alone, as there were two teachers in the High and the Principal of Thayer Academy got a larger salary than a Superintendent of Schools would get. He said further that in our dealings with Weymouth we had always been treated fairly and honestly, which could not be said of South Rest. trec. He gave the formation of the town fire department as an instance of how fairly we had been treated; everything had bech promised and nothing dono.

Mr. J. S. Henry said he agreed with Mr. Allen in what he said about the voters looking after their Interests. The Soldlers' Mounment, the Library and the Academy at South Braintree were all evidences of how well the East Braintree voters look after their concerns. These might have been placed at North Braintree, where

I took Simmons' Liver Regulator, and for several months I have been as stout and hearty as any man could desire to be. I am thoroughly satisfied that it is all that is recommended to be for digestion and billious complaints, for mine was certainly a subblom case. I have heard many of my friends speak of it, and all agree that it possesses all the virtues you claim for it.

A. H. HIGHTOWER,

Conductor M, and W, R, R, " statement. In England and Ireland perplexities far more serious and dangers far more threatening are presented by the land problem than by the existence of a national church. In our own country we have not yet recovered from the formation of vast plantations, the ereation of a lamled oligarchy, the gradual destruction of villages and village life, the extinction of a district school system, and the consequent relapse into barbarism which slavery produced in the Southern States. The Hebrew law prevented the concentration of land in the hands of a few, by The Transfer's Root Bitters with United With United Standard Steam Laundry, Cleveland, Oct, 30 70. In Finalism, Dear Su: I feel it a duty, I owe to suffering homanity to write you. For some time I was sovery affected with a cough; raising had stuff, with every symptom of being a confirmed consumptive. I tried inflerent medicines and cures without finding relief; I also consulted three of our most prominent Cleveland physicians, the last one of which promounced my case serious, and tufouned me that I could not live noure than a few months. About this time, heraiting of your wondering success, I romanuced taking your Symp in consection with your Boot Bitters, and was at once benefited, and after using the medicine some two months I find toyacf cutrely cured.

Thus, though by methods impracticable in our own time and country, it secured a large number of small land-owners. Great estates were never kuown in Judea; a landed aristocrae; never grew up to blight the Holy Land. The Roman patrician, the continental baron, the English nuble, the Americau slaveholder-these have no parallel iu Jewish history.

V. Lending has in all ages been the device of wealth to acquire the possesslons of the poor; and borrowing has always been the high road on which shiftlessness has traveled to want. The Hebrew laws put a gate across this highway; forbade usury; warned the Inexperienced against becoming security for their nelghbors; discouraged the system of pledges and pawubroking BORDA and mortgages; and, in so far as law can accomplish this, compelled the poor to bear the pluch of their poverty at the outset and not to aggravate the difficulty by fleeing from the privations of to-day into the daugerous relief of a debt tomorrow.
